The weather in Malaysia can turn from bright sunshine to a heavy overcast sky and then blistering rain in just 5 minutes. And so it did just before the run started.

On Sec had a hard time before that looking for start paper before the run. It was windy and paper had been blown away. Only when our eagle-eyed Sergeant Eddie spotted it far away did On Sec know the trail.

When the rain started, everyone crowded under the canopy Lim Kim Hai had put up. But at 6pm, the On On call got them into the rain.

The trail led to the side of the highway and then left along the rubber and then into the rubber and then into an open area where the first check was.

The check was broken to the left and the trail went along some shacks and then in the open to the jungle.

There a check allowed the back runners to catch up and the check was broken to the right.

Rob continues from here:

3rd check after river crossing and a bit of a circular. Caused confusion because Jake and Ah Goh didn't want to cross the water. When we crossed the water calf deep. The 6 o'clock crowd had the water knee deep after the rains came.

Then circulating right as railway line formed a boundary. Paper went east into a false trail, and the real trail was in the same direction one contour above.

4th check looped back from railway line and formed a circular. Paper was back almost in the same direction and into the open. Paper went near to the incoming trail and so was a bit confusing.

5th check was in an open area, 2 false trails found. From the check going forward you would hit a false trail, if you continue on you hit another false trail. Paper was off a trail to the right. We then headed for home in the direction of the highway but then paper turned right away from the highway and looped back on itself.

6th check was a circular after looping back and very close to the paper we came in on. An inviting track under the power lines (275kV 4 circuit) and heading for home, eventually finding a track next to the highway.

Except for Mike Moi, all were back in quick time. It was dark early and still drizzling. Circle was called early too.

The butler was latest member, Dave, who could not make the run but came just to do his duty as butler. He also got a drink for laundering the butler's uniform, something not done for a long while.

The hare and his co-hares were on the box and given a drink for a well set run.

On Cash made his plea for the remaining 10 unpaid members to pay up but none of them were around.

Fong Wan was called and given his 5 year patch.

Guests were perpetual guest Bandaraya, Bob Whoremooan Harvie and Rocky Princess Bilotta. Rocky was given an extra drink for mentioning his unmentionable name.

Our perpetual returnee, David Newman, was on the box with a warning that he had used up his quota for the year.

The bomoh was Frank Powder Balls. Well prepared with a list in hand, continually going to the beer truck to read in the light.

He got the hare for no paper at the start and eagle-eyed Eddie for spotting it far off.

The guest Rocky from the USA was charged for being in the wrong place. With a hash name like his he should be in Bangkok.

Next week's run is going to be a bit tough. So tough that his co-hare Bas got sick after the recce. He was away so in his place, as a look-alike fat lazy Dutchman, Hardy was found to be most appropriate.

Fico was up for stealing petrol from Bas's car.

Barry was now and then complaining about the On-Sec and the Bomoh.

But what about Canada? They have a rule that all films must have at least 35% Canadians in it, except for adult films. Because they cannot find enough Canadians with a long enough dick.

The hare was up again for setting a run in a dangerous place with lightning and beside a highway. Because when the guest Bob was changing there was the sound of screeching tyres on the highway.

Lastly, Kana was up as an Indian with no skills.

Russell then called a team of drainage engineers led by Ah Meng and a gang. The corner where the beer truck was to be was flooded and these guys cleared the drain hole and the earth behind during the rain.

The much awaited On On was on site by our resident caterer, Lim Kim Hai and his unmentionable. This time it was fried fish, duck in black sauce, omelette and a soup. Did I miss anything?
Thank you Dexter and his co-hares for the good run and free dinner on site.
