Happenings at 'Taman Agroteknologi'

Run Nr.: 3702
 Date: 17th November 2014
 Hare: Frank 'Powder Balls' Wijnand
 Co-Hares: Bas, Bart
 Runners: 70
 Distance: ~7km.

Checks: 5
FROPs: Monkey
Time: 7.26pm.

Returnees: None

It was a thankfully dry evening this time round. The runsite was a little before the usual place but convenient. Word had got around that an unmentionable chapter had run here before and the hare was the same.

On Sec led the pack up the trail for a short distance before the first check was found. The trail continued on the right and went on a long uphill trek before it went down again.

A group of shortcutters led by the On Sec, went along the paper trail and just before a turnoff, they saw the hares down below them. They turned back and trailed the hares. The trail soon led steeply down a slope to the river and the trail continued in the river.

It soon came off the river and then on a short trail back to the runsite.

Rob gives a summary of the full run:

8.2km and 450m of climb.

Run had variety, some tracks, jungle but didn't seem to gel.

Parking was a bit earlier down the road which would indicate a flatter run, not the horrendous climbs either side to the pylons at the runsite further down the road.

Bash to 1st check just after passing an obvious trail, easily found by Ah Hean

2nd check of an uphill track above the valley by the kampong house. Back check. False trail and then paper some way away.

Instead of the usual drag up the hill to the contours which leads to the Felcra Semungris valley we bashed up the slope to a check under the pylons. Checking forward came to the top of the track we didn't use.

Apparently Frank says the track has been ravaged by a landslide and is virtually impassable. Check broken forward under the power line reserve and down some more into the bush. We bashed across the valley into the Semungrus valley and then back up the track where the previous track joined. Trails were very close together and then usual home trail followed by negotiating boulders in the stream in the dwindling light. Eventually, thankfully, home.

And same place next week.

The pack returned quite early. Our member-caterer, Lim Kim Hai was in action again for the third straight week. Members returning were treated to a porridge, hot and delicious as usual.

Circle was started early too. Since the latest butler was away, the previous newbie, Reid Cooper was roped in.

The Hare and his co-hares were up on the box. All agreed it was a good run and well timed for this time of the year.

On Sec got Kana up on the box. Our cameraman forgot his camera, saying that it was being charged. But the intrepid Kana used his smartphone and a torch and managed to take pictures.

Young Yap was called up but replaced by lookalike Zuric Bee. Young Yap likes attention and a drink on the box. He pays his fees late and gets to drink. He pays it early and also gets a drink. Having settled his fees, he need a reason and decided to overtake the On Sec to the first check... just to get a drink he said.

Meanwhile, Bas was heard to say he does not know that song. On Sec got him up and asked members to give him a lesson.

On Cash made his plea to nine who have yet to pay their subs. But again they were not around to listen.

We had a guest who was also a co-hare. Bart has been running with us before and will be a member next time round... he says.

On Sec asked for next week's hare and Ah Meng was pushed up the box. Poor chap was confused and mumbled that he was only the co-hare. When asked to do the bomoh duty, he called up Kenny Soh.

Since the bomoh was absent, Ah Meng took a drink on his behalf. Kenny asked members to give him that song. But On Sec quickly jumped in and got Bas to lead. He seems to be getting the hang of that song.

Kenny got the hare for not putting up hash signs.

The Hare got another drink for using this runsite 3 times over. Kenny thought his was good hashing spirit.

Albert was up for distributing special lights and Wong Chee Keong was up again for selling shoes.

With charges open to the floor, Zuric got the hare up again. While some sub-contract the bomoh's job, he sub-contracted the paper from an unmentionable chapter. Such paper and that from a mixed chapter were found in many parts all along the trail.

The caterer was still not ready so more charges were asked for.

Russell got Bas up. He asked him how many kids he has. Bas was confused. Russell said that someone had said that the guest Bart was his son. David Hirst was up for this, mumbling something about all Europeans looking alike.

Kenny was back up calling Ah Meng and Frank. Same run site but different trails. But does Ah Meng know next week's run number? The look on poor Ah Meng's face showed total confusion.

The caterer was just finishing the vegetables, so On Sec asked for one more charge.

Russell took this up. Most had wondered whose black Mercedes Benz was parked outside. It turned out to be Ah Kah's car. He excused himself saying that he had had a BMW for 15 years and it was time to change to yet another second hand car.

By now the food was ready and all proceeded to the dinner. It was again fantastic. This time we had fried pork, taufu in black sauce, sotong in a curry and mixed vegetables. What with the extra crates of beer by the Hare.

The Hare was however suitably thanked before the dinner for his good run and generosity.
